

Story Contributor: Faith-Based News & Storytelling Platform (Confidential)

Location: Remote US or Northeast US (NYC, NJ, Philadelphia area)

Type: Freelance / Independent Contractor

About the Organization

A confidential faith-based media and nonprofit organization is developing a digital news and storytelling platform that is in its startup phase. The project combines journalism, documentary storytelling, and multimedia features to mobilize believers, equip leaders, and inspire Gospel-centered impact.

Position Overview

Story Contributors will create articles, features, and profiles for publication across multiple divisions and subcategories, including Field Reports, Strategies, Culture, Commentary, Equip, and others. Contributors will work under the guidance of Division Editors to produce high-quality, faith-based journalism that shares stories of transformation, leadership, and mission in action.

This is a remote, project-based role ideal for writers, reporters, photojournalists, and content creators who are passionate about using storytelling to advance the Gospel and highlight real-world examples of faith impacting communities. Candidates should be comfortable working in a creative, early-stage environment where editorial systems are still being developed and refined.

Key Responsibilities

- Propose story ideas and leads that align with the platform's divisions and mission
- Research and write assigned stories aligned with the publication's editorial focus
- Conduct interviews with ministry leaders, creatives, and community organizations
- Collaborate with editors and respond to feedback during the editing process
- Deliver clean, well-structured, publish-ready content within assigned deadlines
- Ensure accuracy, clarity, and theological integrity in all submissions

Qualifications

- Strong writing, storytelling, or reporting skills (published work or samples preferred)
- Ability to communicate faith-based and community-impact topics with clarity and authenticity
- Understanding of Christian worldview, missional language, or ministry storytelling
- Excellent research and interviewing skills
- Self-motivated, detail-oriented, and dependable in meeting remote deadlines

Preferred

- Bachelor's degree in Journalism, Communications, English, or a related field (or equivalent experience)
- Background in journalism, ministry communications, or nonprofit storytelling
- Experience covering missions, arts and culture, leadership, or social impact stories
- Familiarity with digital publishing tools and collaborative workflows
- Comfortable contributing to a startup media environment where systems are still developing

Compensation

Per-article or per-project basis, depending on story scope, format, and experience.

To Apply

Submit a resume, 2-3 writing samples (or links to published work), and a brief note describing your interest and preferred topic areas. Send to: faithmediacareers@gmail.com with the subject line "Story Contributor Application."
